New York Herald Bureau, Washington, D. C., Feb. 5. THERE is no present hope for more liberal construction of the pro hibition amendment in its application to the use of beer or other

Prohibition Commissioner Kramer stated positively to-day that instructions sent out from his office that physicians might prescribe wine in any quantity their consciences dictated in no way could be construed as a lifting of the lid or an easement of prohibition laws or regulations to meet the "light wines and beer" slogan.

The commissioner indicated that the alcoholic content of been was fixed by the Volstead Act.

"There is," he said, "no present intention of changing the law or regulations so far as I am concerned. Many breweries are making a product with not more than one-half of one per cent., the maximum permitted. Any change would mean the issuance of new licenses and permits and a general turnover. Amendment of the enforcing ac would be necessary."

The commissioner's comment was called forth by widely printed statements of a relaxation of enforcement that would broaden the use of wines and beer for medicinal use, while restricting the prescription
